Motivating Dialogue helps growth-minded leaders like you understand the root cause of miscommunication to ensure it happens less frequently. The Motivating Dialogue workshop is based on research developed by Dr. Taibi Kahler and used by NASA to predict how effectively astronauts would work under stressful situations.

Over 3-1/2 days, you'll discover how different personality types and drivers influence communication. You'll gain practical applications for changing your communication style to connect effectively with anyone.

In this interactive workshop, you'll gain practical skills in navigating through real-world leadership scenarios.

You'll learn how to invite the best out of others and how to minimize distress that can get in the way of communication and achieving goals. You will fundamentally alter your understanding of how to effectively communicate with anyone in any situation.

“The only thing I wish I had done differently is to take these courses much earlier in my career.”
